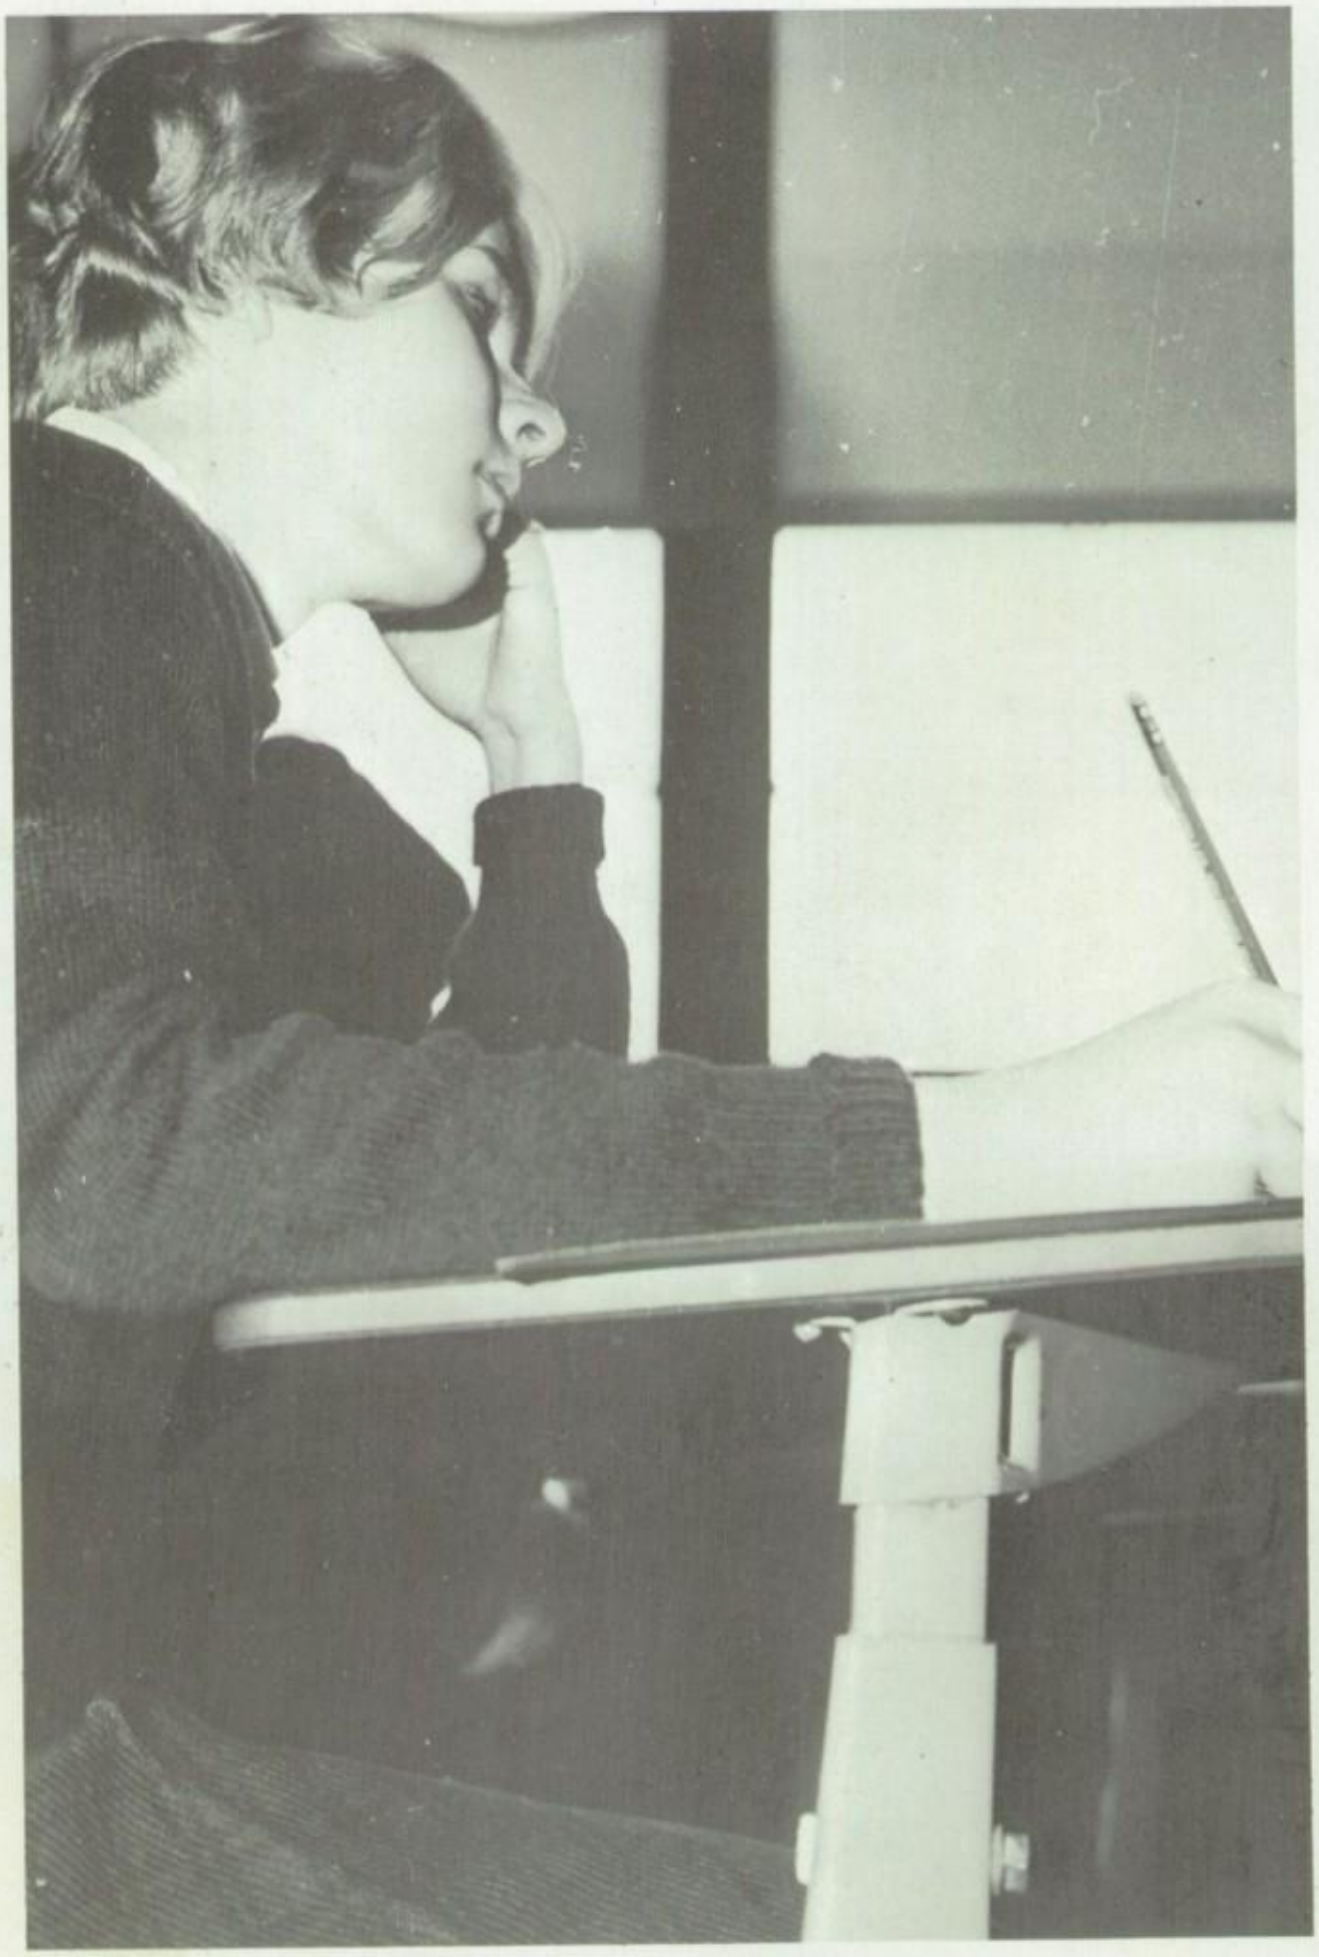
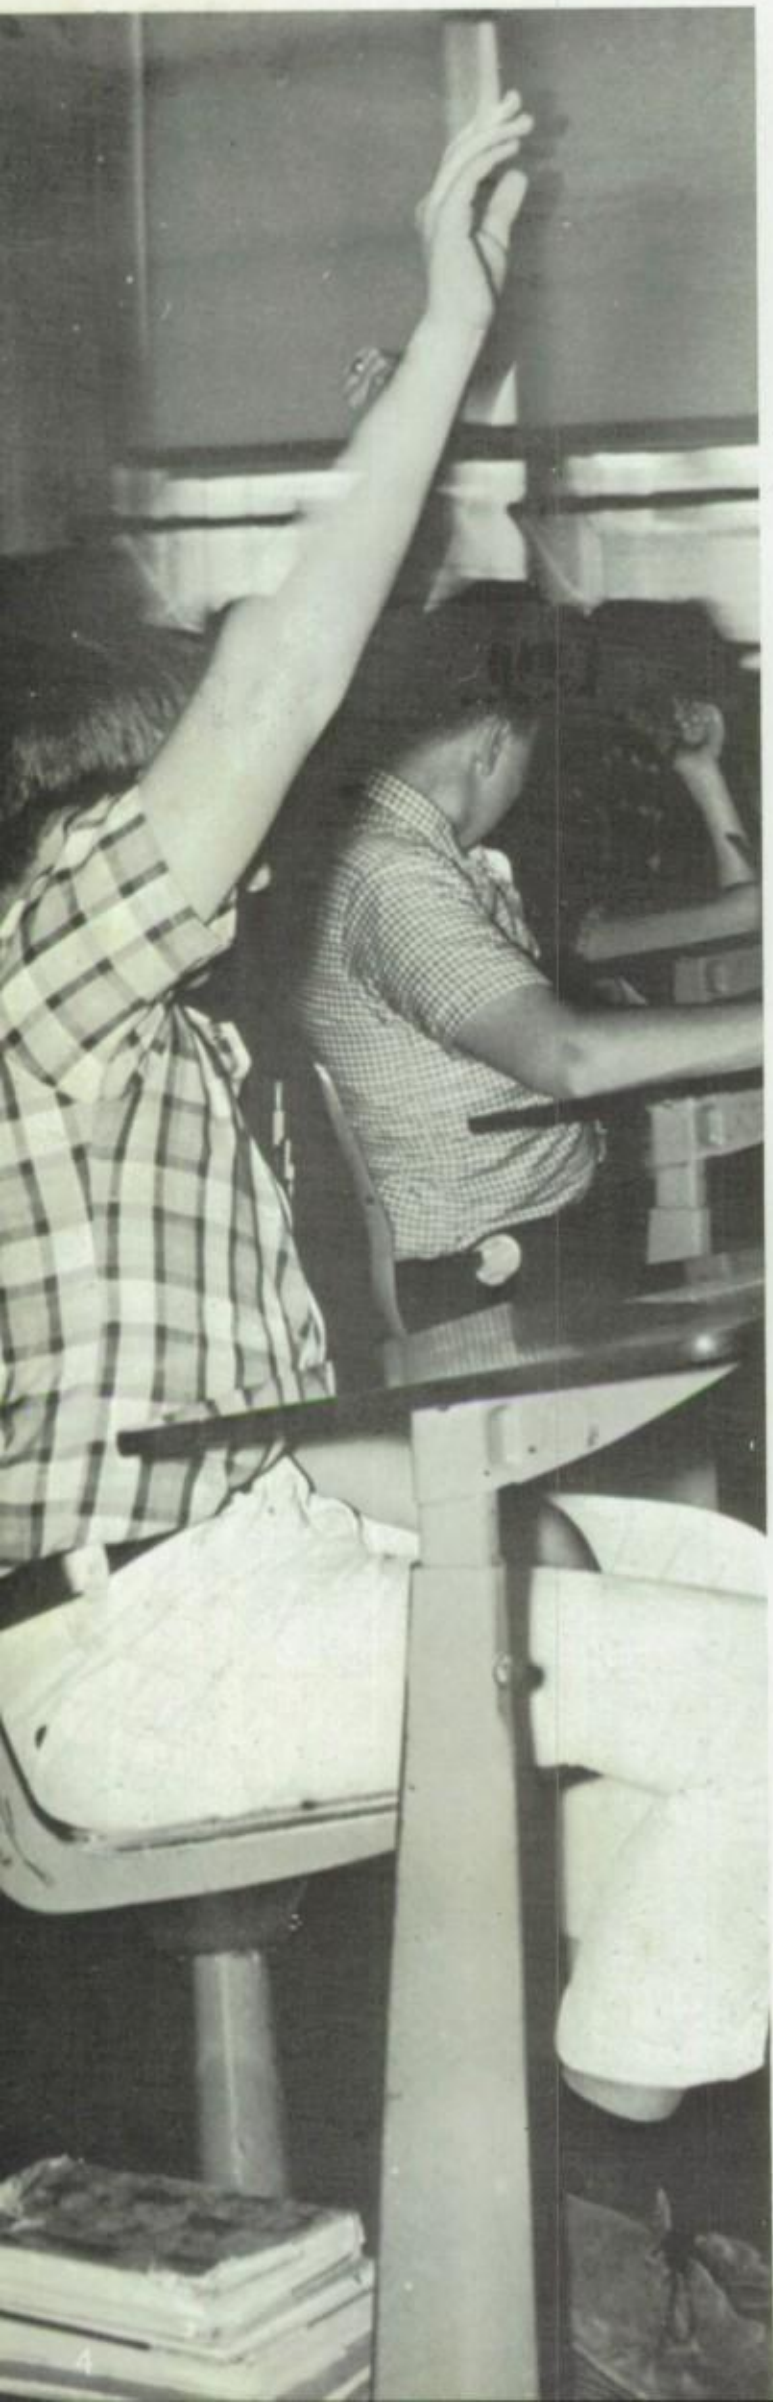
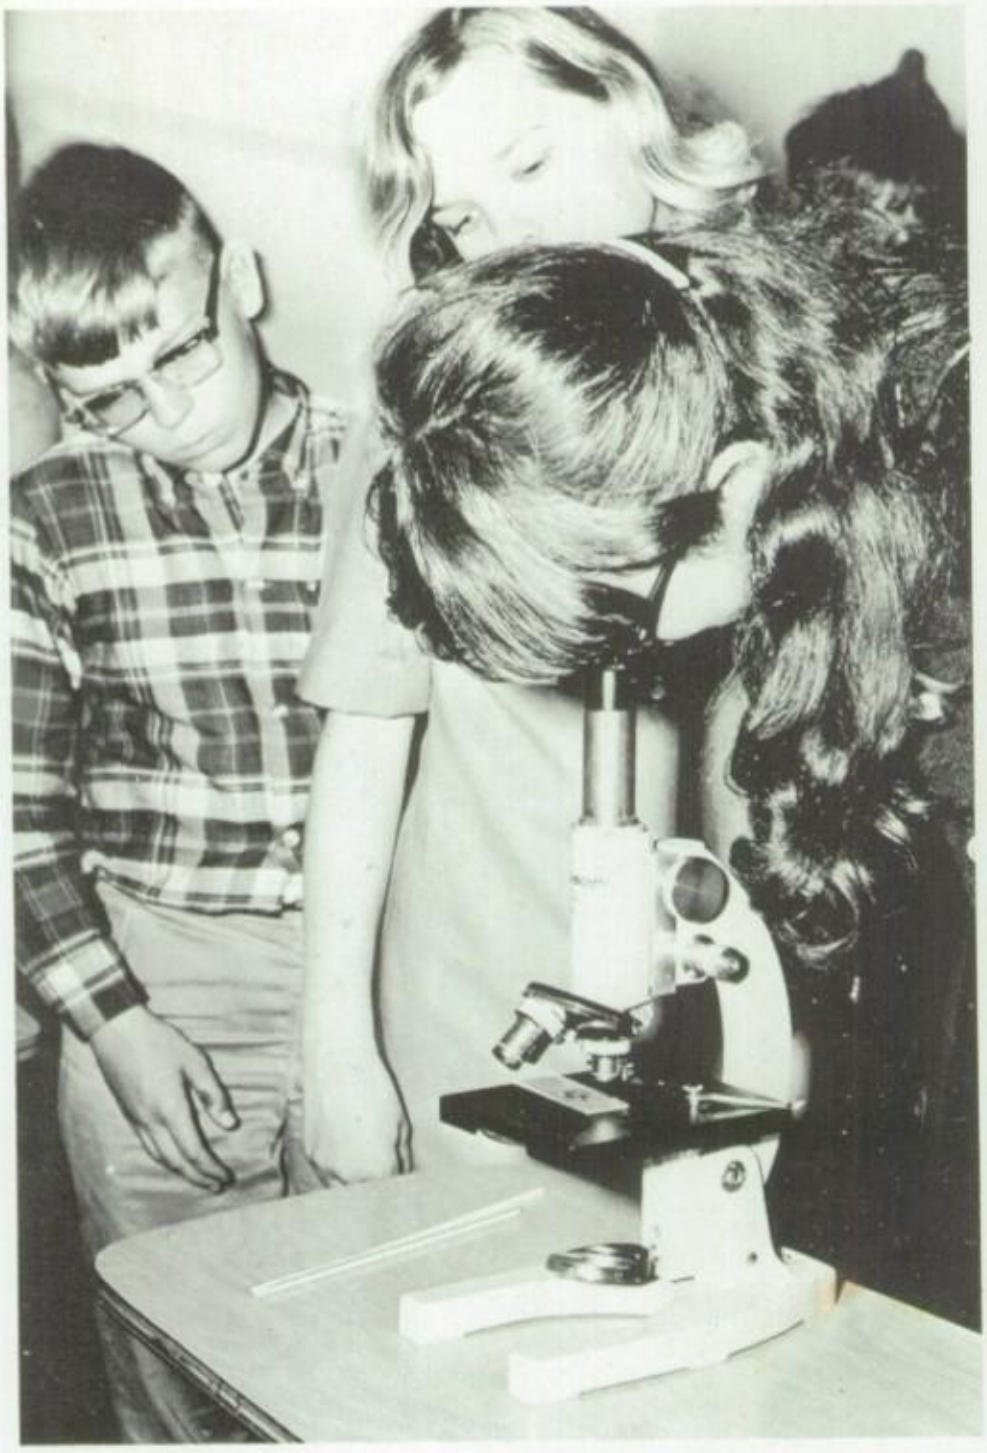
Call not thy wanderer home
as yet
Though it be late.
Now is his first assailing
of
The invisible gate.



. . . But the delicate first
comer
It shall be King.
They shall obey, even the
mightiest,
That gentle thing.





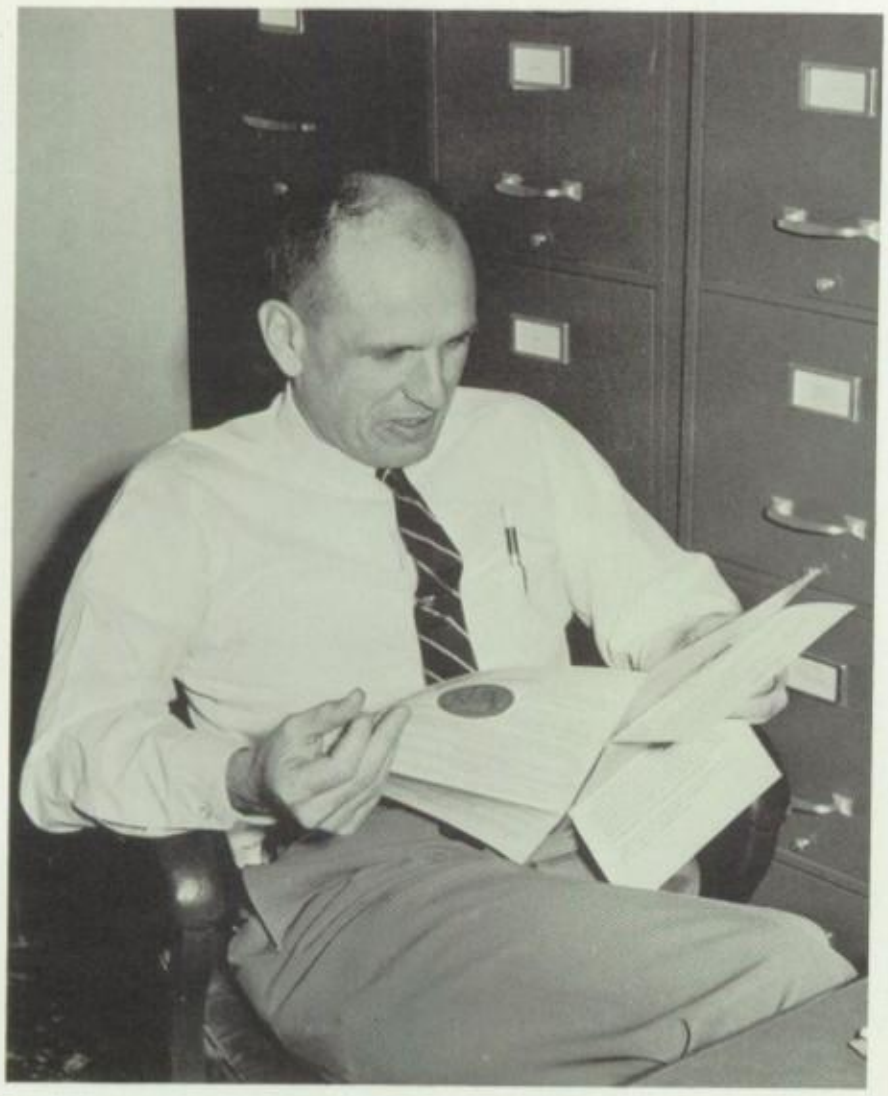
In ancient shadows and twilights
Where childhood had strayed,
The world's great sorrows were born
And its heroes were made.

FACULTY

Principal, Mr. Krebs, talks over building specifications with architect.

Administration

Mr. Leroy Krebs, high school principal, has the job of making possible the work of everyone else in the school. He arranges classroom and student schedules, he aids in the hiring and supervision of teachers, he helps set the standards of behavior and academic achievement, and he carries most of the administrative tasks which make workable that interaction between students, curriculum, and teachers which is the education process. As principal, he must be able to use the talents of his staff and to cope with the temperaments of vastly differing people so that accomplishment and harmony result.



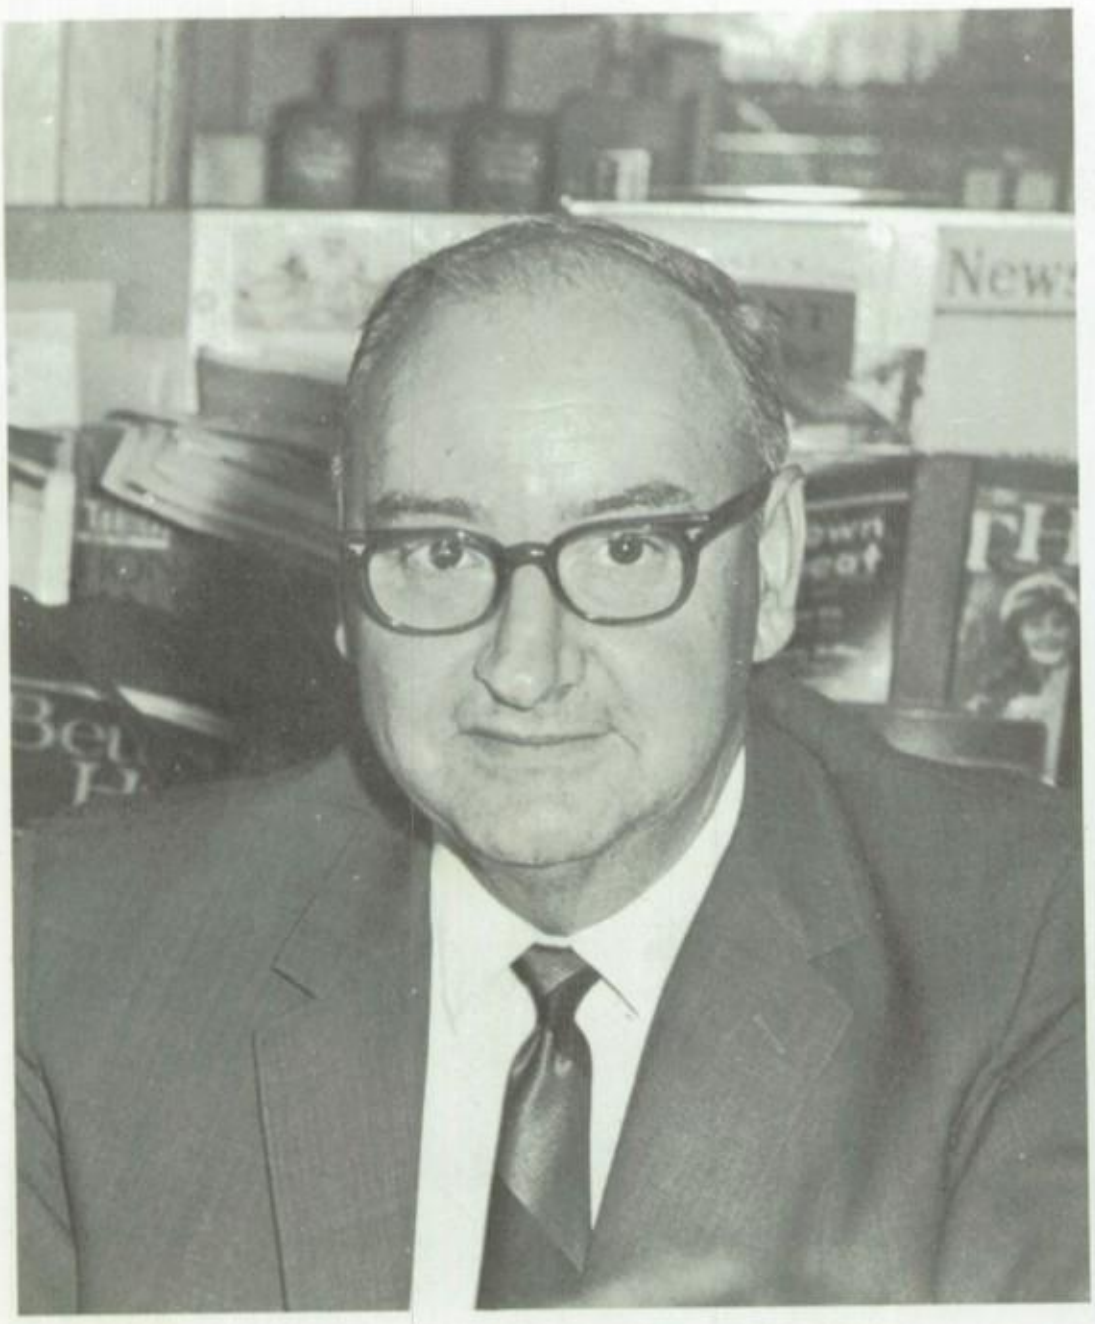
MR. WILLIAM LONG, Supervising Principal of Southern York County District

MR. THOMAS KERRIGAN, Director of Student Activities at Susquehannock High School

MR. JOSEPH McCULLOUGH, Elementary Supervisor

School Board

The governing and policy-making body of the school district this year has been especially concerned with the building of the new middle school. Board members are Mr. William E. Gantz, President; Mr. Guy Leader, Vice President; Mr. Kenneth N. Mellinger, Treasurer; Lester Bortner; Wilbur H. Gantz; Nevin H. Grove; Joseph M. Lehman; Edward McCullough; Earl S. Thoman.



MR. WILLIAM E. GANTZ

MR. GERALD TREON, Board Secretary and Business Manager

Health and Physical Education

These teachers contribute to the physical well being of students both through training the body's coordination and strength and through showing the mind how the body should work.

MRS. JUDY GRABERT
Health and Physical Education

Math and Science

Concerned essentially with the physical world, how it works and sometimes why it works. The teachers in these two interrelated areas also have a variety of teaching approaches: from graphing trigonometric equations, working endless problems on the board, and diagramming a circulatory system to dissecting frogs, filling the halls with the odor from sulphur experiments and climbing stairs to demonstrate horsepower.

English

The subject which takes in and facilitates all others. Communication, whether the battle to understand and be understood in the present or the reading of past experiences and considering their lessons, has a wide scattering of training routines. English teachers may diagram sentences, check notebooks, try to prove that hisself is not a word, help to interpret Shakespeare's Hamlet, take a group of students to see a play, or listen to speeches and oral discussions—all in the name of communication and appreciation.

Social Studies

This discipline tries to involve students in everything that's happened, is happening, and the consideration of what will happen. To prepare students for life in a modern democracy, these teachers may interpret the Constitution, speculate on current events, recommend television programs, evaluate political candidates, work income tax problems. Or they may have to correct term papers and essay tests or look for miracle ways to make the dead come alive in the classroom.

Vocational Arts

The many branches of vocational training provide not only a start on possible future careers and a sampling to aid in the choice for many students, they give all students the chance to try their talents in mechanics, handiwork, and crafts. Teachers here take a hand in anything from restitching seams in trousers to supervising the plowing of a field. Students may work in a print shop, learn how to make oatmeal and how to clean the pan afterwards, how to run shop machines and keep themselves safe from injury, and how to fashion lamp bases, fruit bowls, and new spring suits.

Foreign Language

Foreign languages, ancient and modern, have always been part of academic curriculum. But with the narrowing of distances and travel time and the need for universal toleration, foreign studies have a more practical and perhaps more important use than ever before. Not just the vocabulary words and the grammar rules but the culture and quality of the countries and people are the matter for study here.

MISS ELKE LEHMAN

Business

The Business Department begins the preparation of a specializing segment of our student group—those who will need them. Courses in accounting, business law, stenography, bookkeeping, and typing, meant especially for the business major, and general typing, a must for all students, make the business department an indispensable special curriculum area of the high school.

Special Services

To aid in the smooth running of the school and to do necessary special tasks for students and teachers, several specialists must be working—in the classroom and outside it. Providing for present physical and mental needs and planning for the years after high school are the duties of this group.

Fine Arts

Choral and instrumental music, painting, sculpture—students at Susquehannock, as students everywhere, need opportunities and laboratories in which to develop skills from talents. Assemblies, concerts, shows give a chance not only to display and use these talents but to entertain and to widen the knowledge of the audience. The fine arts departments provide the time, place, and training of talents.

Secretaries . . .

An indispensable part of the school's operation. They have not only the usual and expected secretarial tasks—typing absentee lists, making P. A. system announcements, answering telephones, and keeping data on students—but they also help seniors with college applications, dispatch janitors to where they are needed, and help lost seventh graders find their next class.

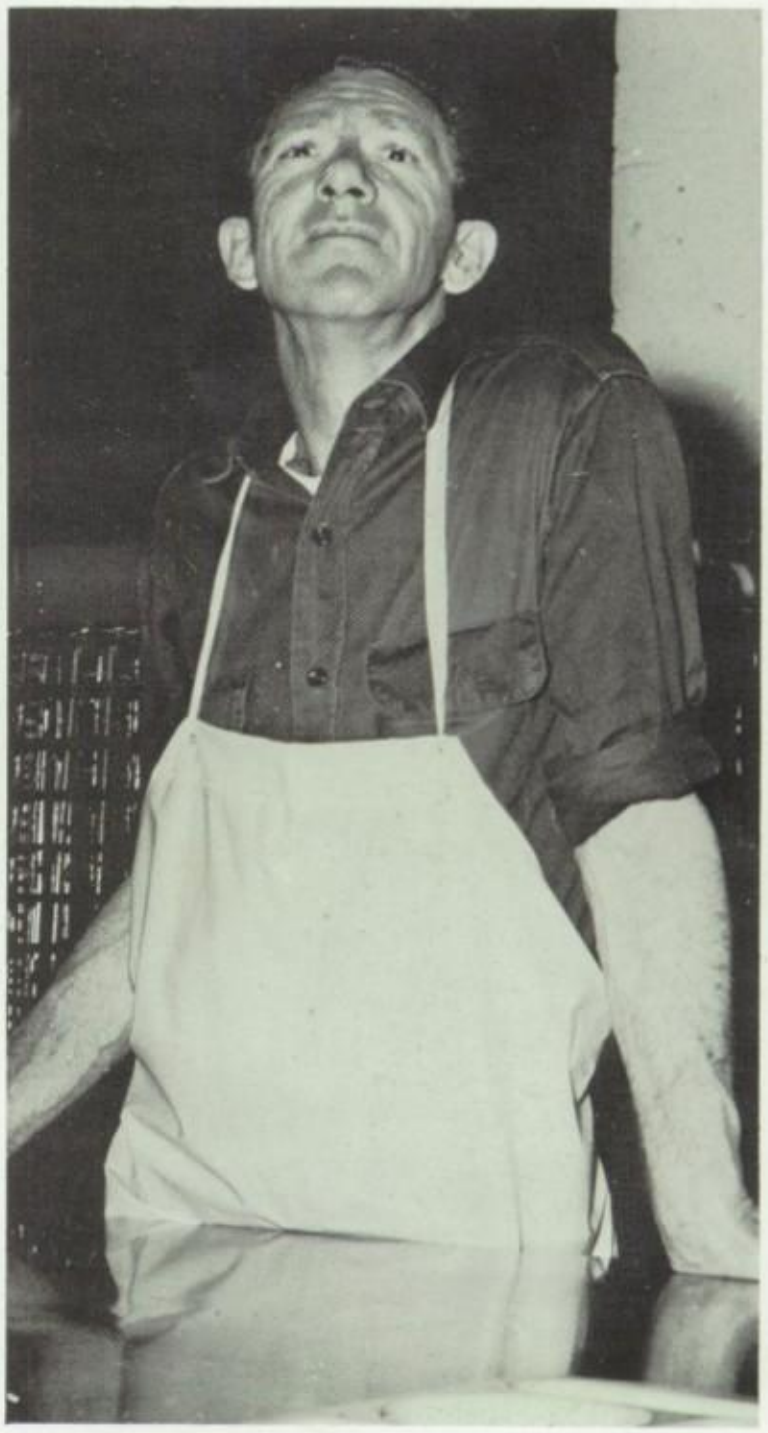
School bus drivers calmly await the 3:05 onslaught.

Getting sandwiches ready for the first lunch.

Maintenance men get a chance to test fire equipment in a real emergency.



School Operation Staffs

Besides their usual jobs, bus drivers run their own lost and found services; janitors help students with stubborn locker doors, loan equipment to decorating committees, and attend all school functions in case they're needed; cooks store ice for physics classes, sell napkins, for bake sales, and donate assorted boxes, cans, and jars for science classes. Even though few of us show appreciation, we're glad these people are there to help us.

CLASSES

Debbie Miller and Linda Bowers in a typical junior class scene—a chem experiment.

Juniors

A class play and several money raising schemes would be enough to keep juniors busy (along with school work and thoughts about the future). To add to the activities, juniors sponsor the prom and provide key athletes for varsity teams. Many important decisions must be made during the junior year for a good senior year and a good future.

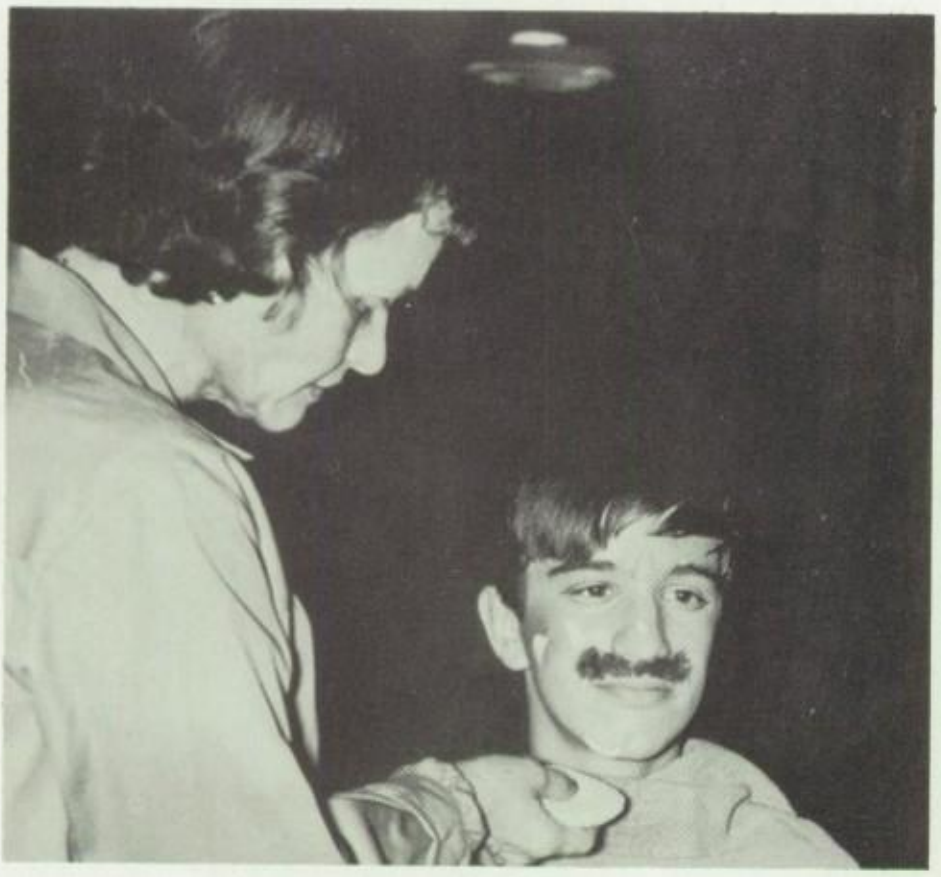
A Horse, A Horse . . .

On April 28 and 29 the Junior Class presented the comedy A Horse Named Ed, under the direction of Miss Krumrine, Mr. Ruth, and the student director Dawn Stitely. The story tells what happens when the high school burns down and classes must be conducted in nearby homes, with the office in Ed's stable. Wilbur, Ed's owner, tries frantically to keep everyone happy because he is trying to sell his plans for the new school to the board of directors. After all the misunderstandings have been straightened out the story ends happily. Ed was played by Steve Thoman, other members of the cast were Linda Helfrich, Vera Reimold, Judy Dubbs, Peggy Whorl, Bonnie Wolf, Diana Ernst, and Greg Plitt.



Miss Krumrine helps turn Richard Hoch into a construction contractor.

"Man, when the horses start talking it's time for this chick to cut the scene."

Sophomores

Sophomores cram for world cultures tests, dissect stiff grasshoppers and crayfish . . . and Julius Caesar. They get their official badges of school membership, their class rings and jackets. And they contribute athletes to the varsity teams for the first time. Tenth grade is the time for preparing for College Boards and thinking about what to do when school is finished. This is the first year, too, for Mixed Chorus membership and possible National Honor Society election. Sophomores are comfortably in the middle of their high school years—knowing enough for confidence but not enough to kill enthusiasm.

Ninth Grade

By the time a Susquehannock student becomes a freshman, he is really a part of the high school. He may participate in all of the sports, and the girls may for the first time try out for hockey and volleyball teams. He begins to plan his future and can choose from a wide range of elective courses. A freshman usually faces the late hours a few nights a year to finish a Pennsylvania history project or to plan a money raising scheme for the class trip.

Eighth Grade

Eighth graders, with a year of high school experience, know how to use the library, how to judge the length of a teacher's temper, when to stay home from school, and what is the latest fad and hit record. They have enthusiasm and are willing volunteers—for errands and with ideas. Besides the usual courses, they can choose languages, choruses, geography. Sports —football, wrestling, basketball—are new challenges for some. Eighth graders also have classroom projects to take up spare time: model rooms for home ec., rock collections for science, scrapbooks for language classes.

Seventh Grade

When a seventh grader is new at Susquehannock, he is nothing but a ball of confusion. Classrooms get lost, books disappear in lockers, and teachers never understand. Fortunately, students and teachers adjust, and seventh grade turns out to be the year for meeting classmates who will be companions for the next six years and for deepening the knowledge of subjects met before and meeting new ones.

Since 1965, Susquehannock students have been selected to attend the Area Vocational Technical School. The classes for the school are held at William Penn High School in York; students work half of their time in classes and half in workshops. Among the courses offered are graphic arts, medical technology, drafting, distributive education, wood and metal craft, and electronics. In their final year, students may work a half day to gain practical experience in their chosen vocation.

1966 Football – More Team Needed

The 1966 football season had its share of near-wins and discouraging losses. The team won its first game, against Kennard-Dale, to remain undefeated in fifteen years of play against that team but was unable to carry that beginning through the rest of the season. The 1966 team had only five returning lettermen to base a new team on. Fans, coaches, and players are hoping for the breaks to win next year's close games and the talent and depth to compete in the rougher ones.

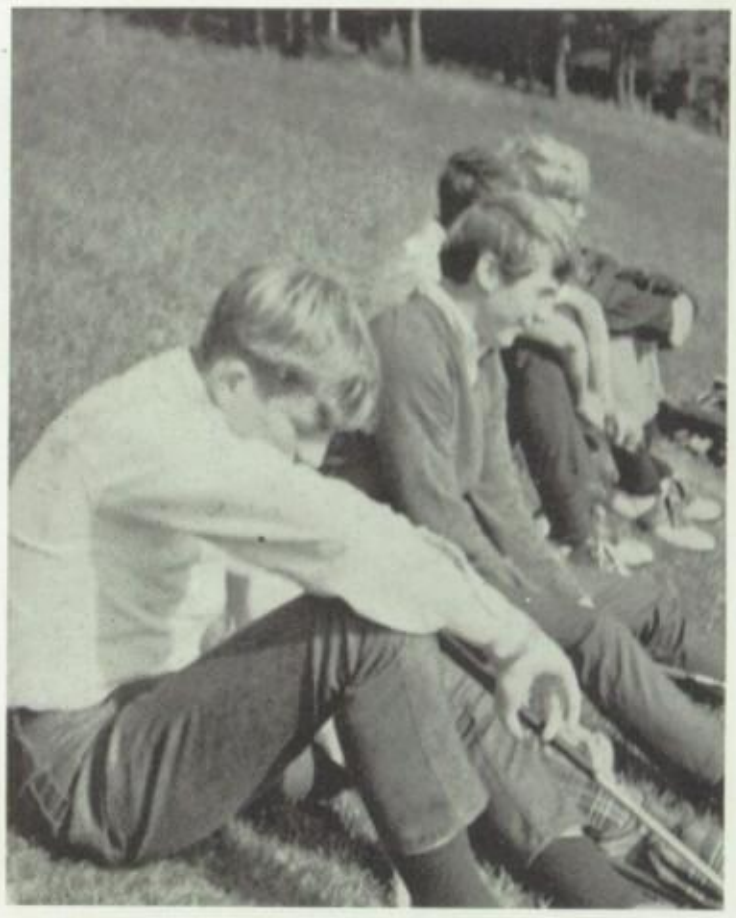
New Plan For Junior High Football

This year the ninth grade football players became part of the senior high squad to let them gain experience with older players. The junior high team was composed of seventh and eighth grade players; the team, coached by Mr. Wakeland and Mr. Wood, spent the season training in the fundamentals of football. Learning team play as well as football skills now should make this team the basis for strong high school teams and for competitive junior high seasons.



The golf team earns a rest after a long practice.

A league change of the golf season from spring to fall affected this year's golf team adversely. Several possible players were already playing football. But with a number of young players coming along and gaining experience, prospects are good for future successful seasons. Team captain this year was Darvis Bradfield, the only senior.

First Field Hockey Season

In its first season, the Susquehannock Girls Field Hockey team made a good showing in non-league play, winning two of its five games (against Suburban and Northeastern) and playing for close scores in its other games. Captain Peggy Wagner and four other first team players will be lost, as graduating seniors, to the team's first year of league play next year. But other players who gained a season's experience this year should make a strong base for a winning team in Susquehannock's first official year in the York County field hockey league.

Basketball Season

This year's varsity basketball team, coached by Mr. Richard Hamme, was a virtually inexperienced squad with no returning lettermen. Although the season had its exciting games, the team was unable to hold its own in the league. The junior high team had an even season and the near future of basketball at Susquehannock promises to be more successful.

Wrestling New At S.H.S.

Susquehannock students got to try another new sport this year: Mr. Slezosky's team made a good showing in exhibition wrestling matches and will join the county league in two years. The sport involved many boys in athletics who were not participants in other sports.

Club Sports

Intramural groups are mainly for students who can't participate in regular school sports. The Junior and Senior High boys and girls groups take turns using the gym and the athletic fields. Under the direction of Mr. Slezosky, Mr. Shellenberger, Mr. Blough, Miss Ambrosius, Miss Stermer, Mrs. Grabert, and Mrs. Hemminger, the students develop their skills in sports and gymnastics.

Cheerleaders With Spirit

The senior high cheerleading squad, under the direction of Miss Throckmorton, consists of eight regulars and two alternates. They cheer at football games, basketball games, and the faculty-varsity game. They also keep the school adorned with posters concerning upcoming sports events and scheduled pep rallies. This year the cheerleaders attended a cheerleaders clinic at Cedar Cliff High School where they learned new cheerleading techniques and cheers.

A Winning Volleyball Season

The 1967 volleyball season had a 10 wins, 3 losses record; the Warriorettes were second in their division to Suburban's first. The three losses, to Suburban and Central, were close games. Three seniors will be lost to next year's first string—hopes are high for another league championship in 1968.

ACTIVITIES

A New And Active Organization – A.F.S.

Adviser, Miss Krumrine, Janet Heathcote, Norma Schuman, Mary Trout, Glenda Allison, Sara Fritz—A. F. S. Board.

The A.F.S. organization, created to aid in the school's support of the foreign exchange student program, had a busy year raising money for and carrying out arrangements for an exchange student for Susquehannock. By its fund-raising projects, A.F.S. also widened our social calendar by sponsoring a Battle of the Bands, a dance, a contest for A.F.S. Queen, and a competitive share-selling program. We also entertained exchange students visiting other local schools on an A.F.S. sponsored International Day.

Visitors From Switzerland

Roger Diethelm, our A. F. S. student for 1966-67, came from Switzerland and stayed with his American parents, the Baumans, in Glen Rock. During the school year, Roger not only became very American, but became also very well liked. He was the spark of his history class and could fill in for an absent German teacher. Roger played football and was on the track team. We can only hope his impression of us came close to ours of him.

John Willis came to Susquehannock through The Black Rock United Church of the Brethren. In New Zealand, he lives on a sheep ranch, and so he took some of our agriculture courses here and worked on special projects. His American family was the Boldossers. John will get a chance to see more of our country on his summer tour.

New Yearbook Ideas Tried

The 1967 Calumet staff made a few changes in yearbook make-up: coverage was extended to include the activities of the whole school year, an original cover was created, and new section and lay-out arrangements were tried. Our hope is to catch the pictures and ideas that will remind you twenty years from now what happened to you in the school year 1966-67. Editor Neal Panzarella stressed the use of candid pictures to all staff members. We hope you liked the results.

Choral Groups

Students at Susquehannock get choral training and a chance for fun and enjoyment of music in the wide range of choruses in school. Senior Band Gets A New Look . . .

The Senior Band, under the direction of Mr. David Heberlig and Mr. Ronald Walker, display their new uniforms in concert formation in the picture above. The band first wore their new uniforms during the 1966 football season. The tuxedo look for concerts converts to a marching style with the addition of white capes. Besides half time performances at football games, the band has a part in two concerts every year, at Christmas and in the spring.

And A New Executive Committee

The Senior Band this year elected an executive committee to help tighten band organization. The committee . developed a point merit system, promoted a dance and a banquet, and worked to organize a Band Parents Association. Committee members are Jim Hoffman, Judy Kurtz, Tom Hare, Kent Rohrbach, Lida Leader, Allen Knapp, and John Fay.

Head Majorette, Mary Trout

Band Complements

New uniforms were also in order for the majorettes and color guard this year. Along with the band, these groups spend long hours in the summer and after school practicing formations and marching so that their shows and parades may be on a par with their appearance.

Student Council Has Busy Year

Under the leadership of Ed Hamme, Student Council this year helped to raise money for card tables for the school and for foreign exchange, and provided students with activities as well. Among council projects were the Alfred E. Neuman Dance, selling refreshments at basketball games, having bake sales, and sponsoring a May Day Program and a faculty-varsity basketball game.

Outdoor Clubs

Outdoor activities clubs, some of which meet during regular club periods in school and others which meet on free time, offer students a chance to learn or improve skills such as riding, archery, hunting, fishing, and other outdoor sports. The meetings provide get-together time for enjoyment and fun.

Vocational Clubs

Several of the clubs in the present program give students a sampling of vocational fields they may go into in the future. The possibilities are varied: nursing, teaching, homemaking for the girls and metal and wood working, graphic arts, farming for the boys. The clubs also take on practical jobs for the school. The graphic arts club prints the newspaper and most of the school's forms and they recover some of the ruined library books. The Future Farmers plant trees and cultivate some of the fields around the school. The wood craft club works on some of the broken furniture. Many of the projects from these clubs are displayed each year at the School Fair.

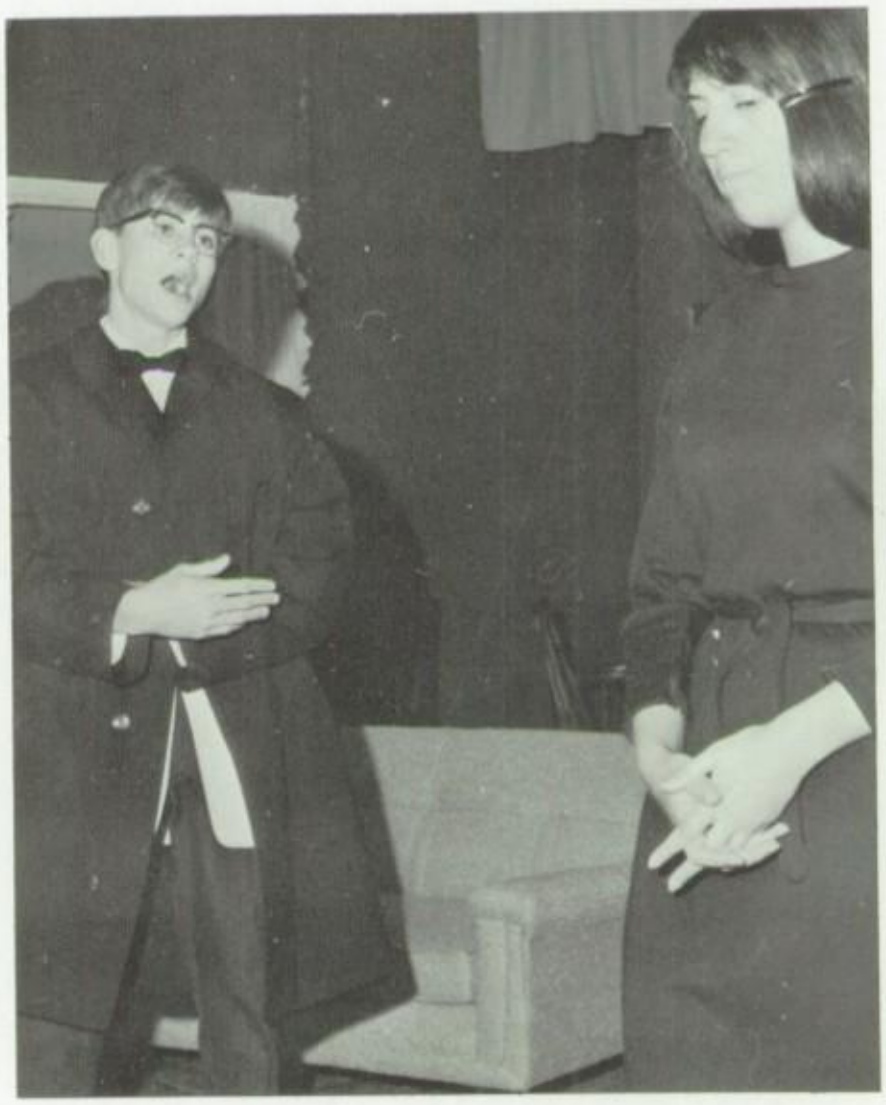
Stage Door On Stage

November 18 and 19, the senior class of Susquehannock presented Stage Door by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman. The story of the play is of a group of young actresses trying to get their big breaks, or even just a little one, on the stage. But life went on, whether the girls did or not, and the society they lived in in their "Footlights Club" boarding house provides the real material of the play. The play was directed by Mr. Ruth and student director Carolyn Warner; assistance with make-up, staging, and lighting was given by faculty and student crews.



"I don't like those people any better than you do. They don't mean anything to me."

A "visitor" to the Club appreciates a piano concert he uninvitedly hears.

Sunday morning at the Footlights Club.

The announcement of a marriage and the scream, "I've got a job" cause more excitement than the club members can take this early in the morning.

Homecoming – A Great Success

The 1966 Homecoming activities drew the largest crowd ever. Such popular events as the F.F.A. Capon Supper before the game, an exciting football game in perfect football weather, and as topping for the evening, the Homecoming Dance with music by the Chaparrals and the crowning of the Queen, were even more popular this year. The finalists for the title of Queen were Pauline Wilcox, Judy Bare, and Peggy Wagner—Peggy was crowned Queen.

Peggy Wagner learns she has been chosen Queen.

Pauline and Judy wait anxiously before the crowning for the outcome of the voting.

The candidates for Homecoming Queen ride onto the football field at half time.

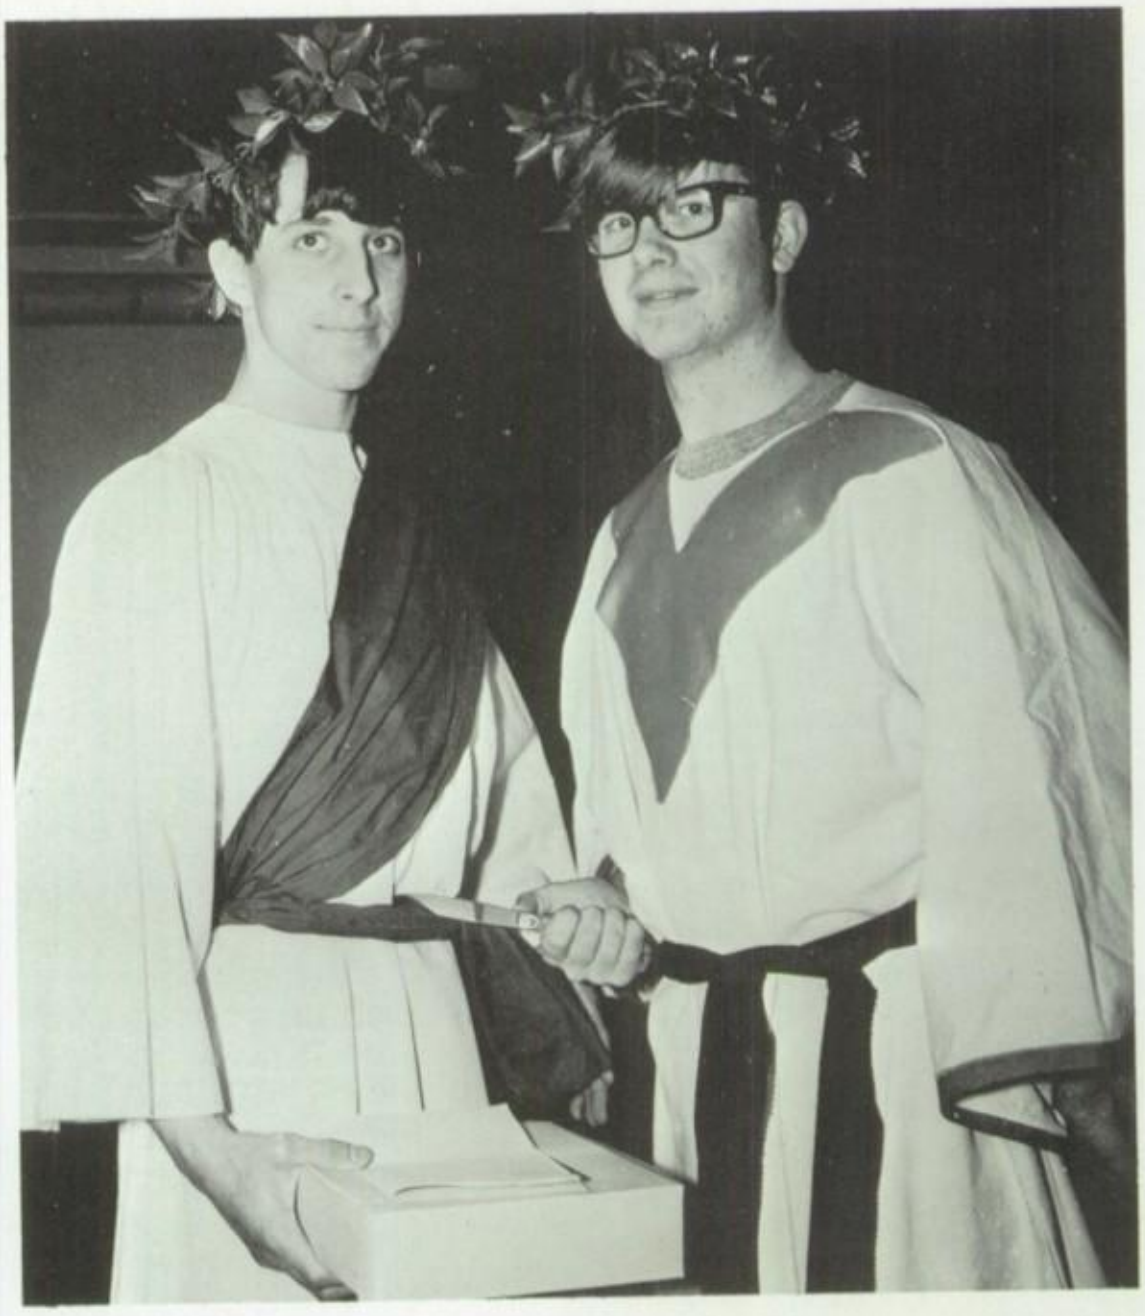
SENIOR OFFICERS: President, Bruce Bauman; Treasurer, Donna Stermer; Secretary, Peggy Wagner; Vice President, Judy Bare.
ADVISOR: Miss Krumrine.

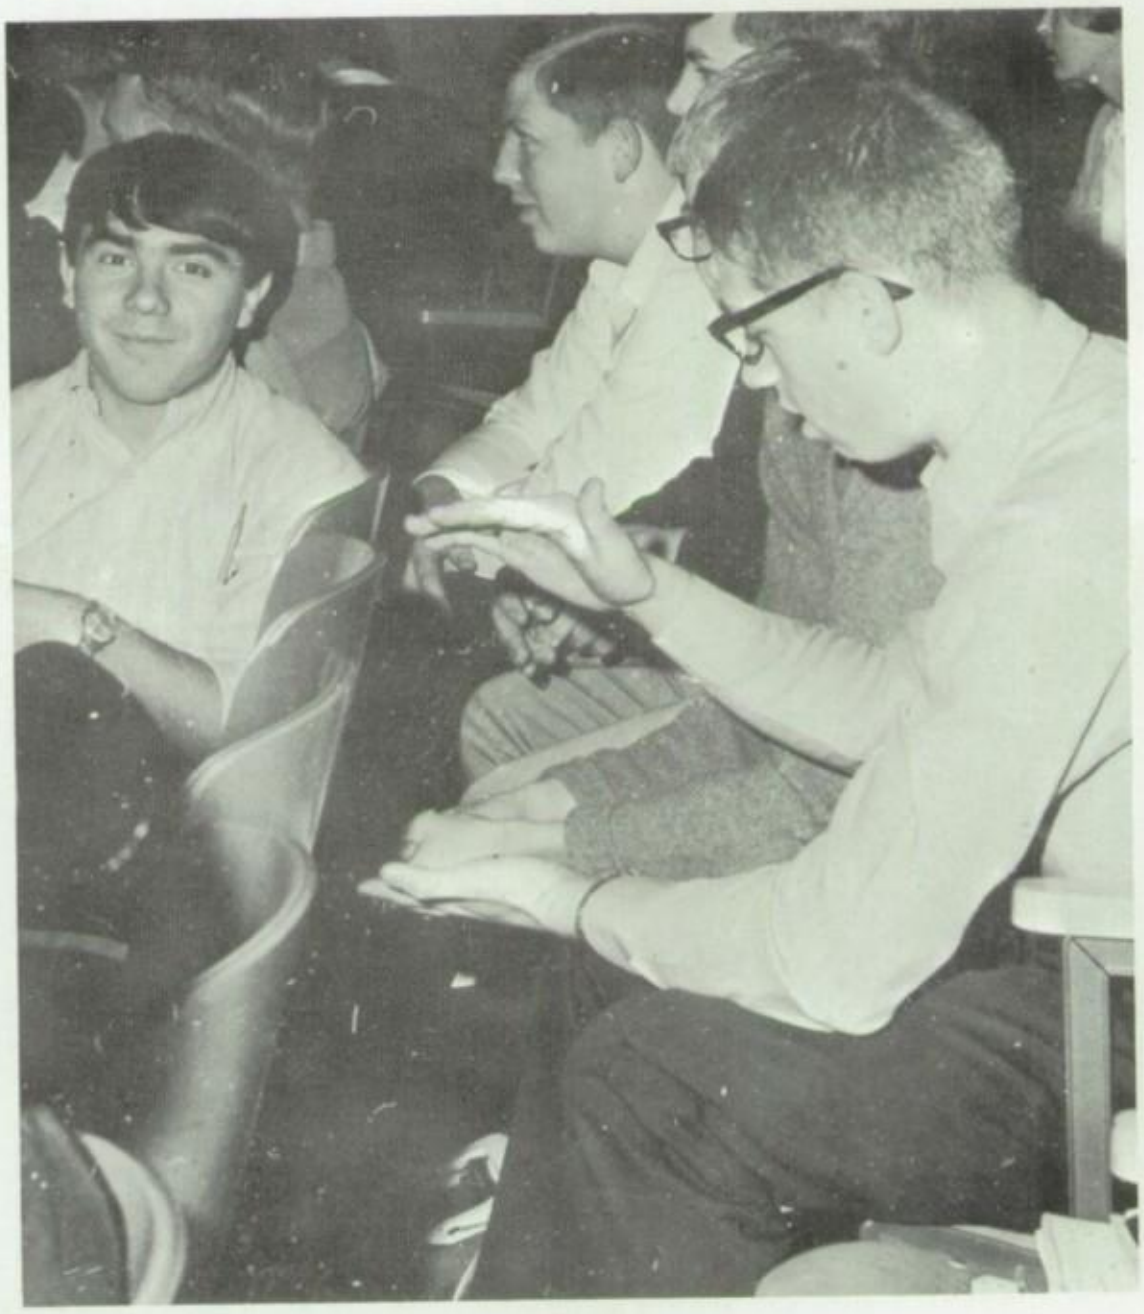
Colors: Moss Green and Pale Yellow

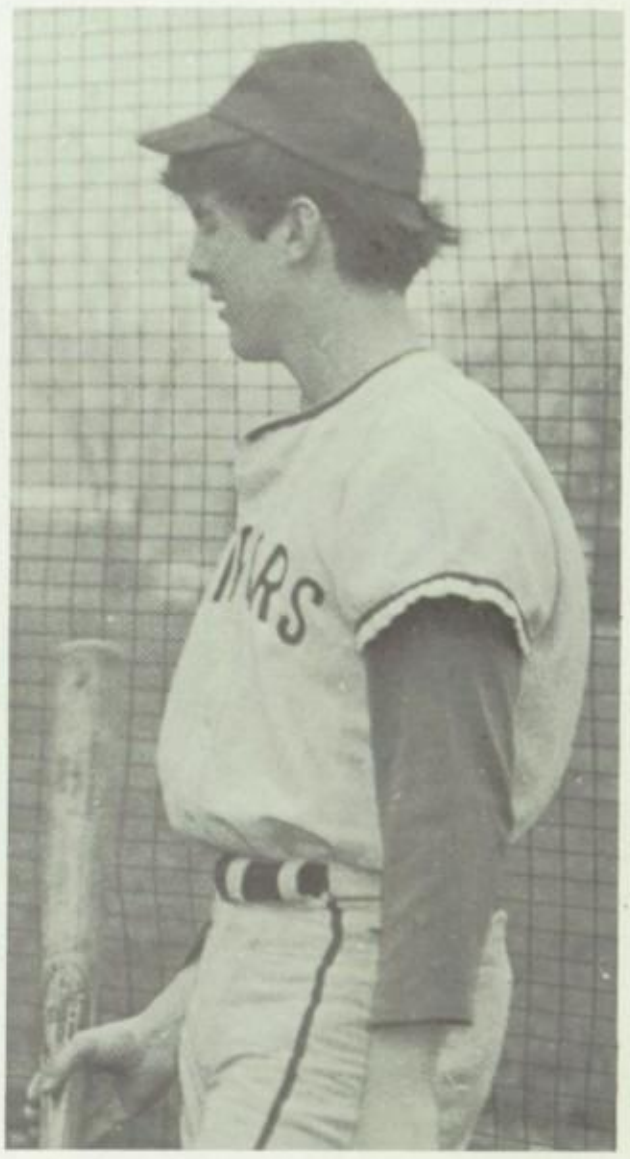
Flower: Yellow Rose

Motto: We came to learn; we leave to teach.

Memorable Moods and Moments







Senior Trip to New York

The two buses carrying seniors to New York for their three day excursion left at 5:30 a.m. with sixty bleary eyed people. Included in the tour were trips to the United Nations building, Kennedy Airport, Lincoln Center, and Radio City Music Hall. The seniors saw Funny Girl and the movie Barefoot in the Park and many of the unschedulable sights of New York.

Kennedy Airport architecture—a sightseeing moment.

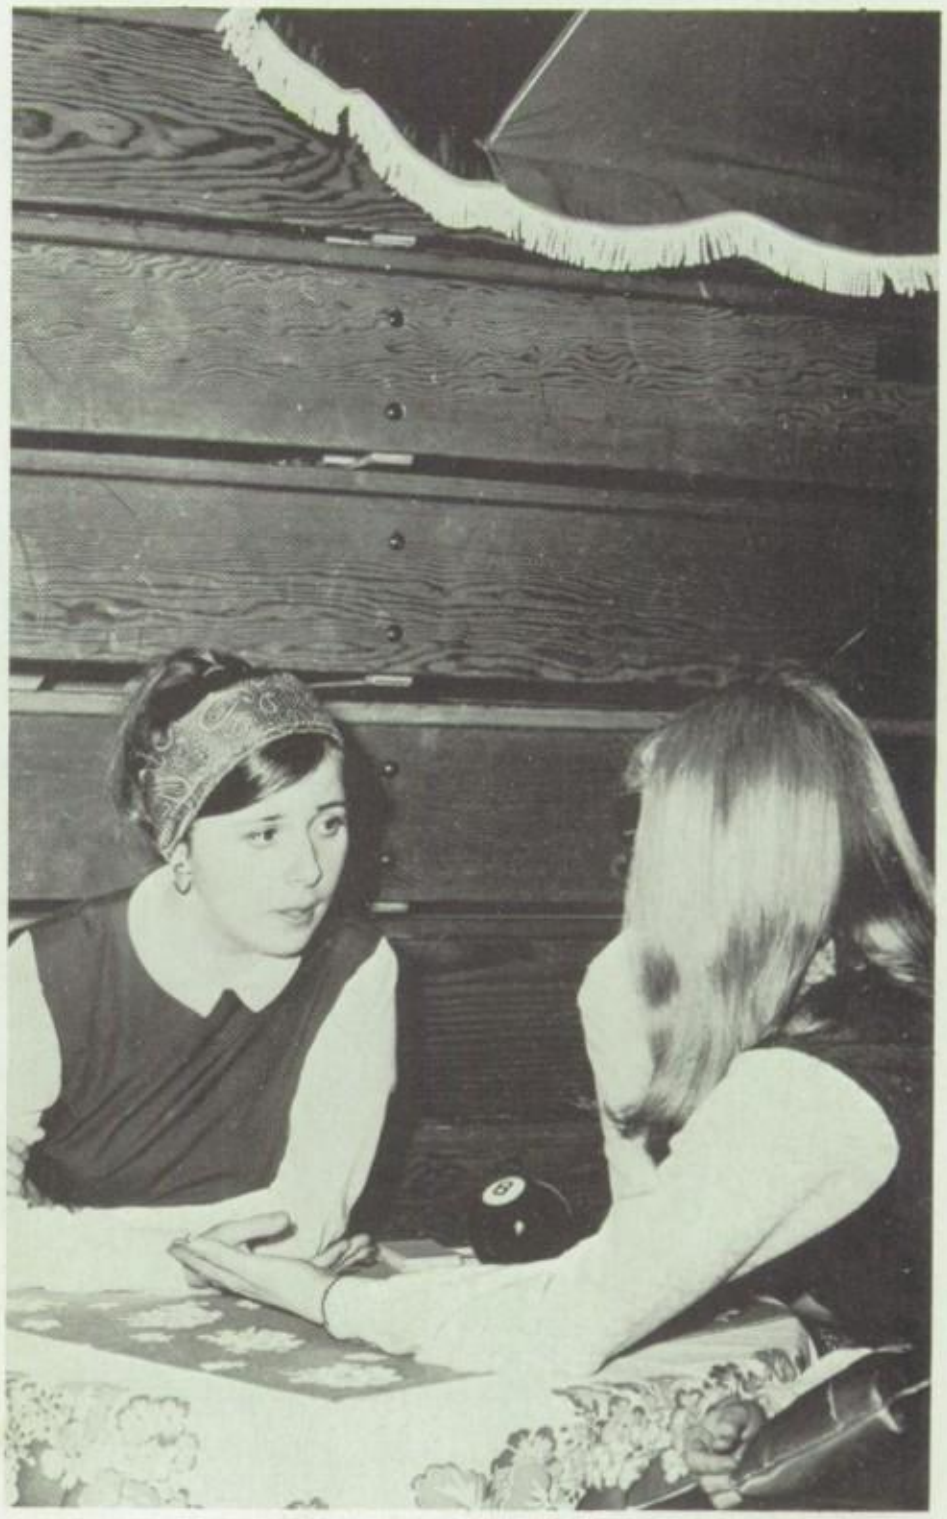
Seniors gather to go to Radio City Music Hall.

Cindy Remphrey looks determined to send the seat out the far door.

Fun Fair Fun

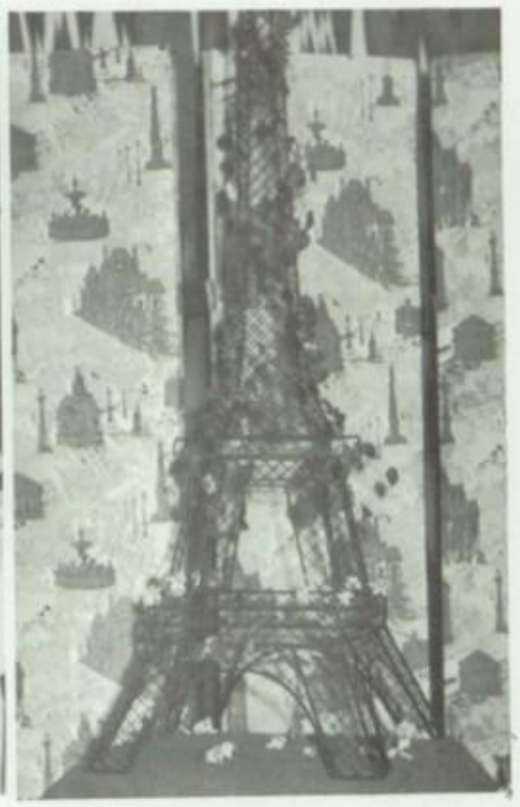
The Senior Class and the P.T.O. sponsor a carnival each spring to raise money for the senior class project, usually a contribution to the school. This year, a popular fair attraction was a chance to swing a hammer at an old car. Seniors operated all the attractions and helped set up the fair with the aid of parents.

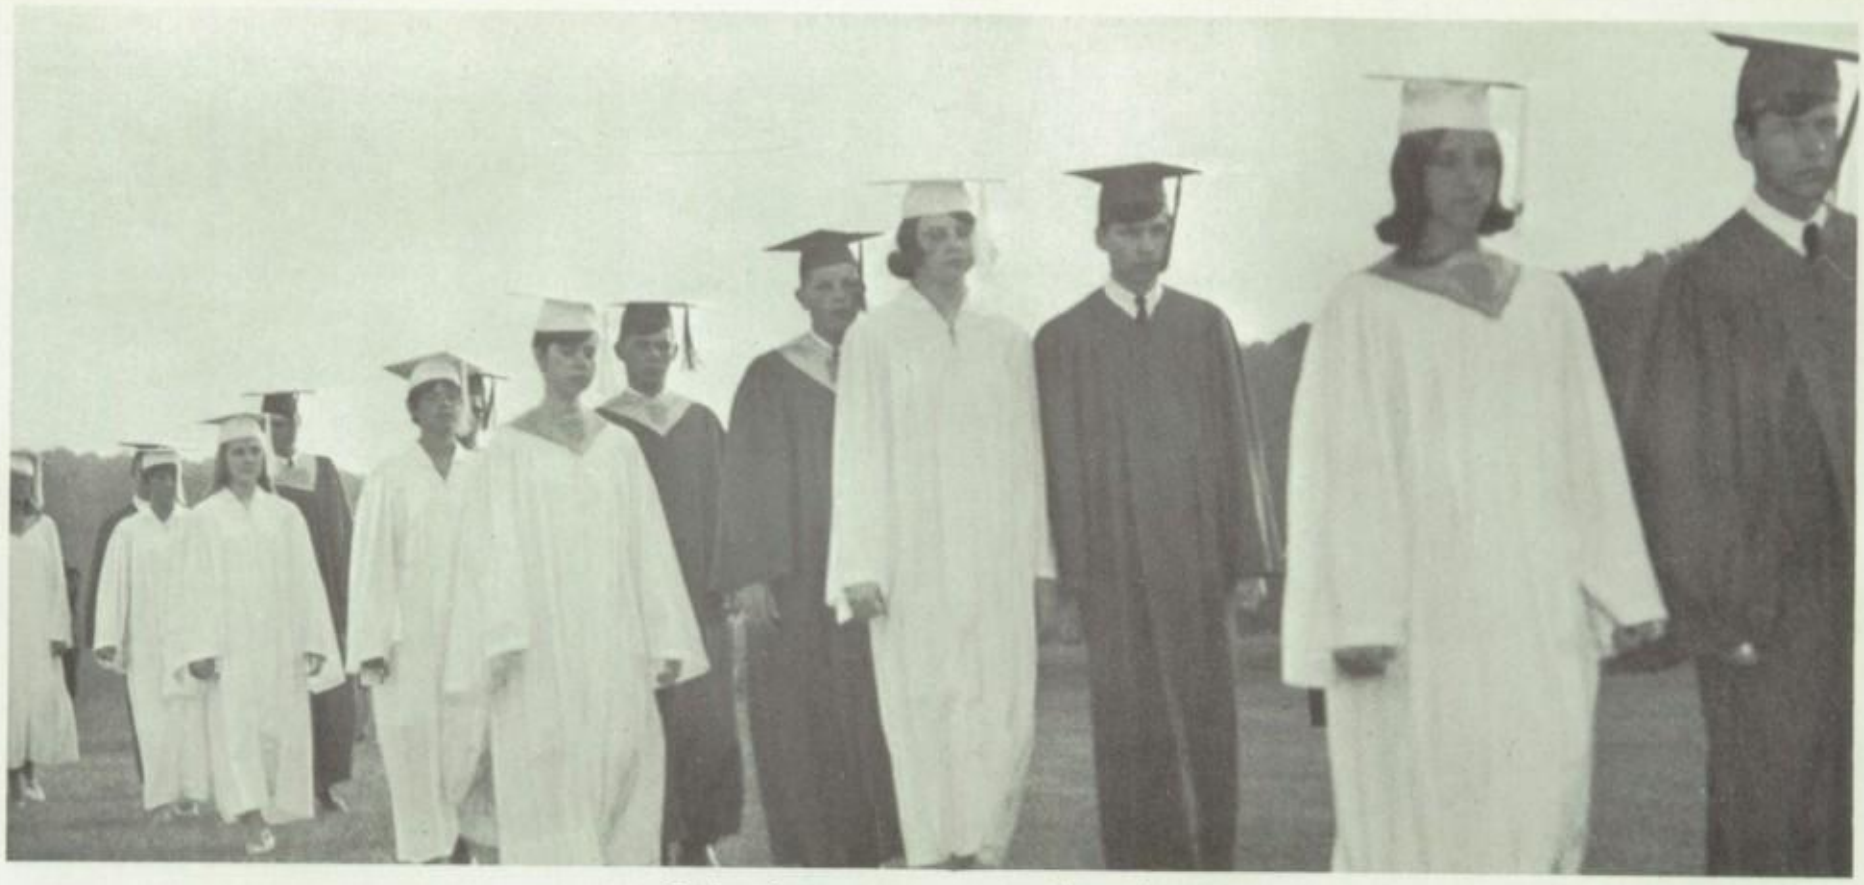
Smitty had better move fast.



Janice Kroh looks concerned about what she has seen in the customer's palm.

Junior-Senior Prom





Only a few moments to remain seniors.

Commencement practice—still some time to reminisce.

Commencement speaker, Dr. Bricker

Commencement 1967

A warm, blue skyed evening, June 8, was perfectly suited to outdoor graduation exercises. Mr. Krebs presented scholarship and service awards to Pam Thoman, Sara Fritz, and Neal Panzarella; musical selections by a mixed ensemble, Jim Horn, and Pam Thoman were presented between speeches by the Valedictorian, Ronald Johns, the Salutatorian, Jim Altizer, and the speaker, Dr. Bricker. One hundred twenty-five seniors were awarded diplomas.

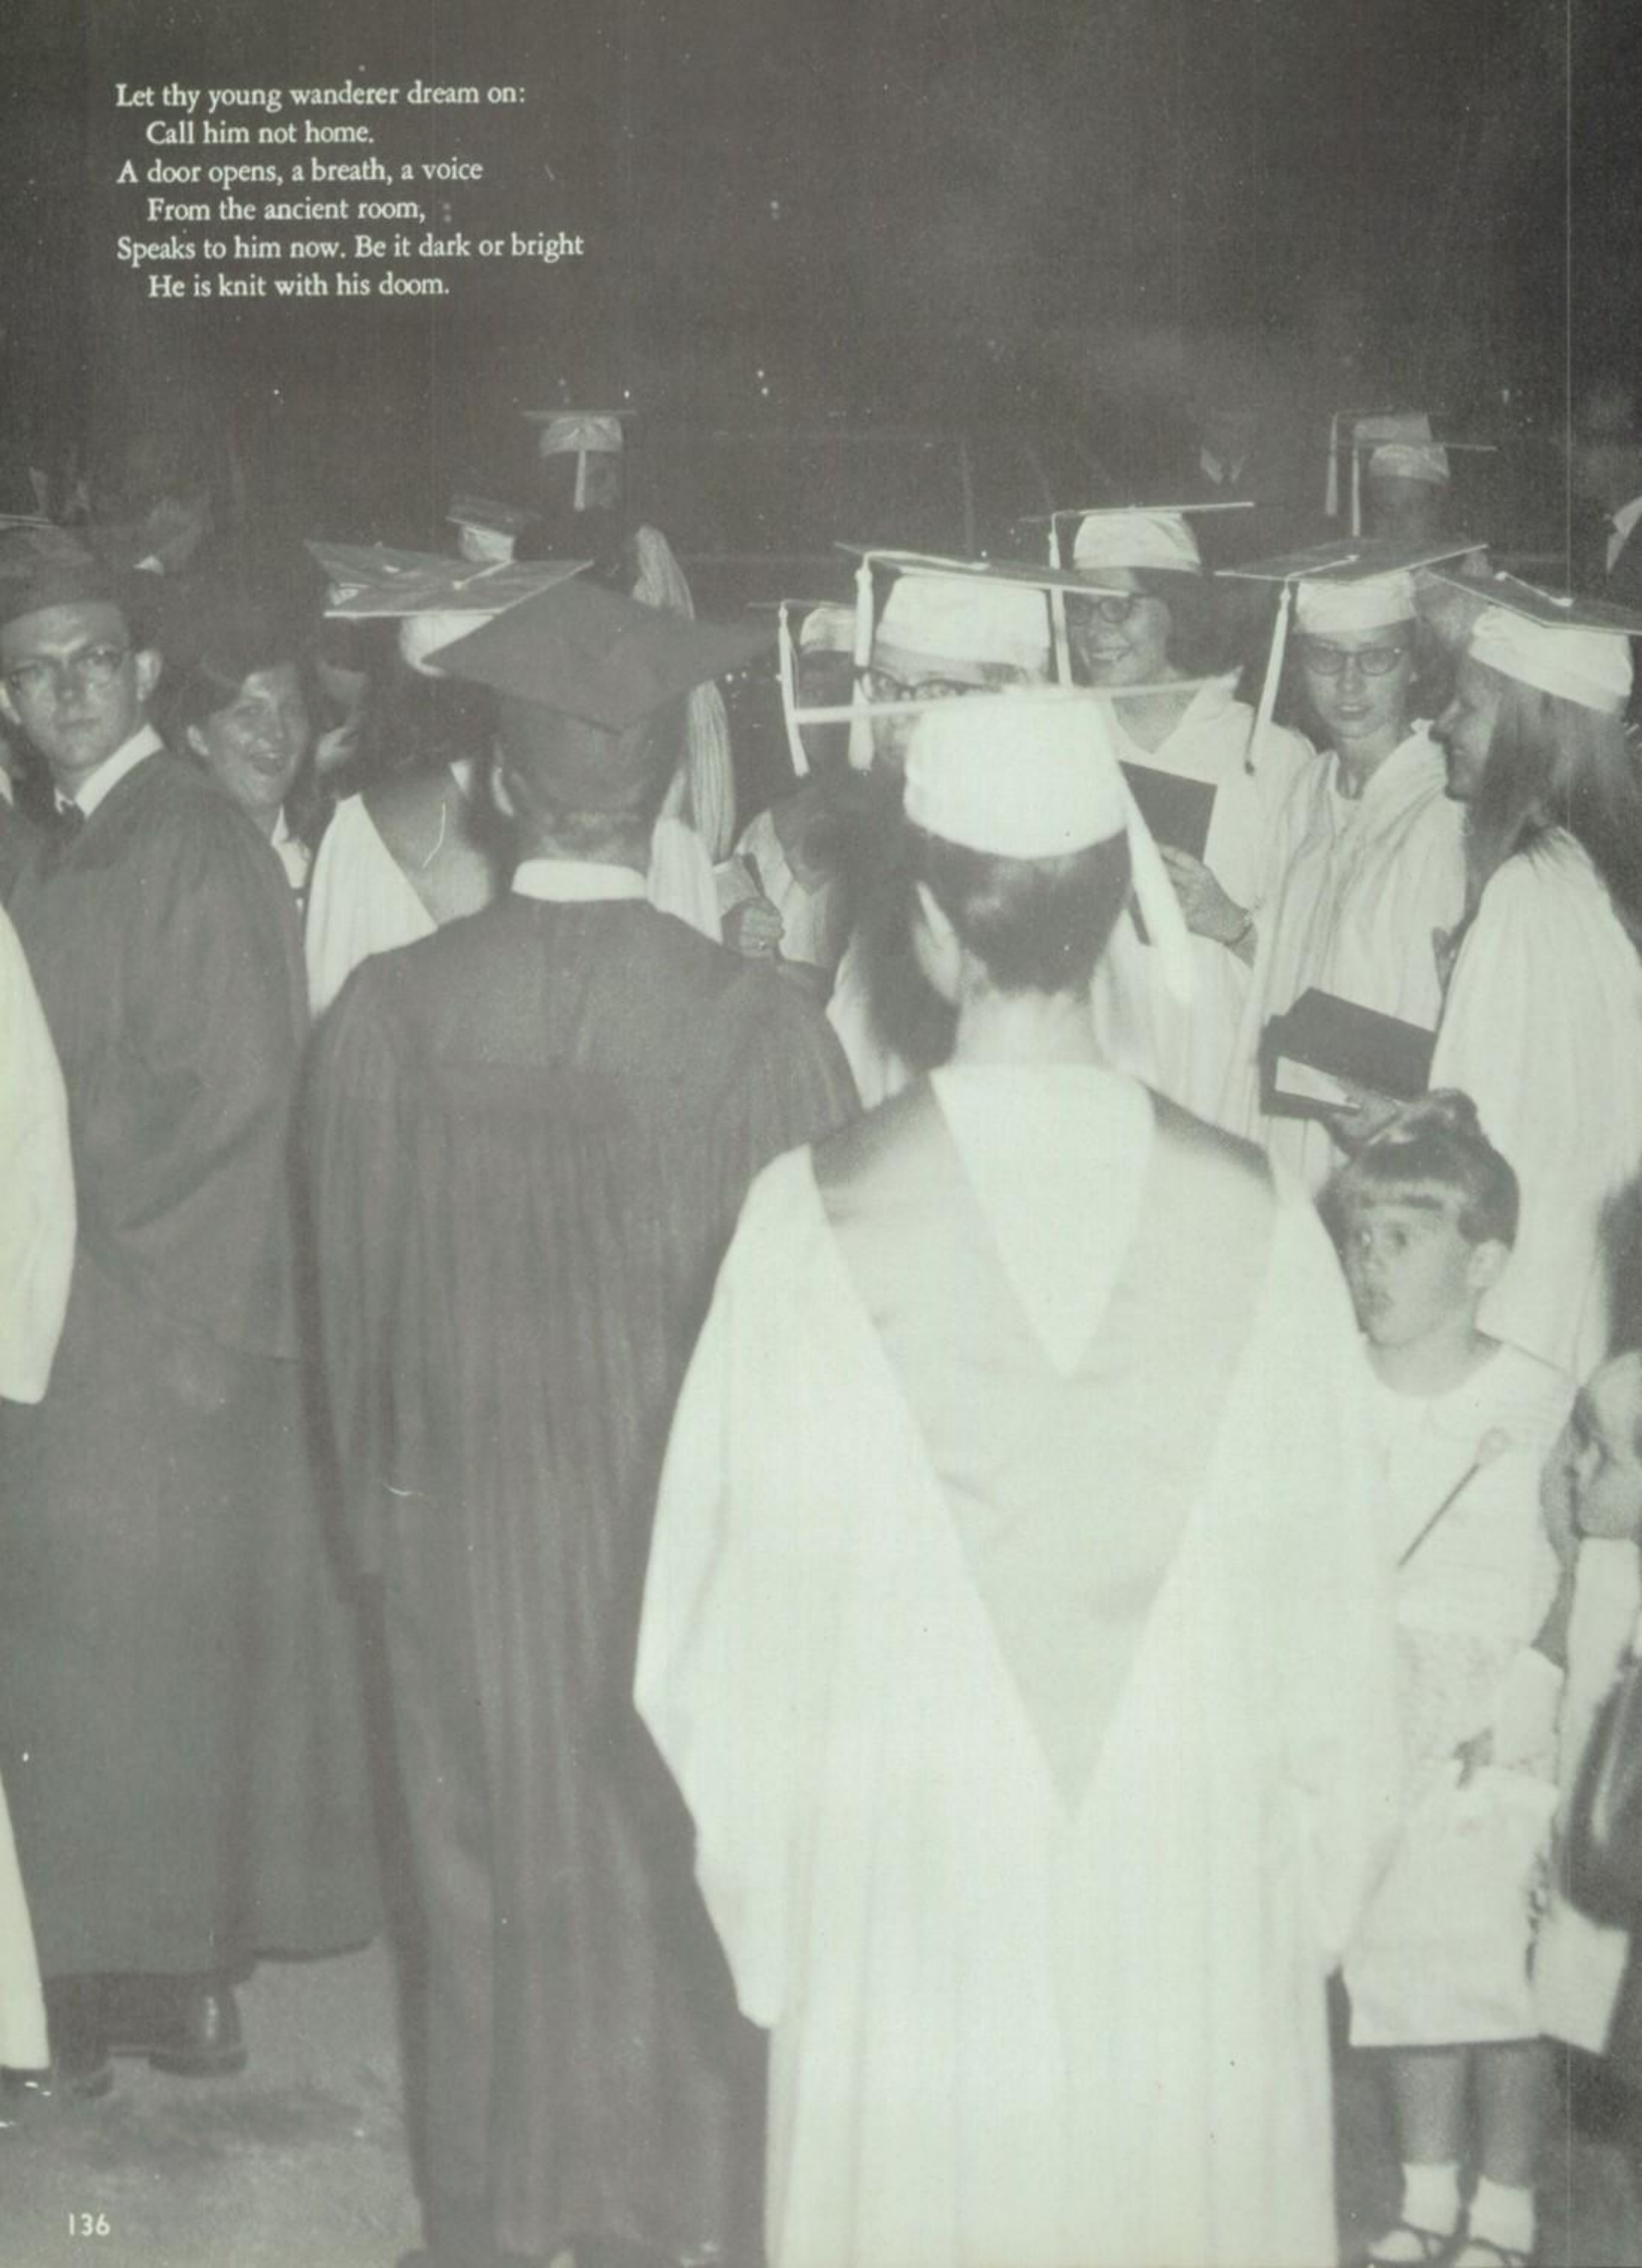
A last dance as seniors.

Cold Dip Highlights Senior Party

Shortly after commencement, seniors boarded buses to go to the country club for their all night party. The party was organized and supervised by Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wagner and by other senior parents. A cold swim revived the seniors for their night of dancing, submarine and pizza eating, and Jerry Lewis movie watching. At 6:00 a.m. festivities ended and a day of sleep began.

Let thy young wanderer dream on:
Call him not home.
A door opens, a breath, a voice
From the ancient room,
Speaks to him now. Be it dark or bright
He is knit with his doom.



Stanzas in the introduction and on the preceding page are from "Germinal" by "AE."

The end of the beginning!

A lot of work goes into earning a diploma. Your name on one indicates a measure of achievement of which you can feel proud.

But a diploma is only a milestone—a measurement of what you have done.

Now . . . how about doing something with it?

For example, what are your plans for furthering your education?

If that isn't possible, then how about looking for a job with a company for whom you can work as beneficially as you worked for your diploma?

Personal effort is the essence of success—the key to your progress. That precious piece of paper you receive graduation day can help you unlock a bright future—as bright as you strive to make it.

May your future be a fine one!
